Managing the horse's diet involves more than just looking at feed tags– pastures can play a large role in the horse's overall health and nutrition.

Twenty-one NJ horse farms participated in a program to find out which diet/pasture management practices are used by horse farmers and what changes could be made to improve farm efficiency and environmental stewardship.

Join us in North or South Jersey to hear about the results of this project and how you can apply them to your own farm!

Registration is free but space is limited. Please RSVP to Laura Gladney:
